Description

The Akyga® AK-CO-02 converter allows you to connect to a laptop or computer devices communicating via the RS-232 standard using a USB connector. This conversion is usually useful on newer laptops without an RS-232 port. This standard is most often used in printers, cash registers, electronic meters and diagnostic interfaces. The cable has a length of 1 m and is terminated with two male plugs. One USB type A and the other RS-232. The device is a one-way adapter and works only one way from USB to RS-232.
The drivers for the adapter can be downloaded from this address.
