Desctription

The Akyga® AK-USB-50 USB-C cable is a high quality cord for fast charging Apple's iPhone smartphones. It has been designed with efficiency and durability in mind, making it the perfect solution for those looking for a reliable and efficient way to charge their devices. With the ability to deliver up to 60 W (20 V / 3 A), this cable provides fast charging, which is essential in today's fast-paced life, where every minute matters.
The AK-USB-50 cable is a USB-C to USB-C cable, meaning that it has USB Type-C connectors on both ends, allowing for easy and fast connection between various devices with USB-C ports, such as smartphones, tablets (iPad), laptops or even docking stations. This versatility makes it extremely practical for a wide range of technological applications, offering users a single solution for many of their needs.
The cable's robust outer sheath is reinforced with a damage-resistant braid, which protects the cable from bending, twisting or other forms of physical damage. This extra layer of protection ensures that the cable will serve the user for a long time, maintaining its functionality and aesthetic appearance.
The cable length of 50 cm is perfectly balanced to provide sufficient flexibility while avoiding excessive tangling. This is particularly important for users who need an easily accessible but reliable charging option, whether they are at home, in the office or on the move.
Support for USB 2.0 data transfer allows users not only to charge their devices, but also transfer files, making the Akyga® AK-USB-50 cable a versatile tool that meets the diverse technological needs of today's consumers. The cable's sleek white design further enhances its modern character, making it a stylish addition to any set of mobile devices.
